

“Look at it this way, Weller. You’ve pitched a swell seven innings, but now we’re bringing in a Sparky Lyle.”

1972

THE COMPLETE CARTOONS OF THE NEW YORKER

“I can understand his feelings. I, too, would hate to be the first President in history to call off a war for moral reasons.”

J.B. Handelsman (9/30/1972)

Return to Main Menu ▶

"My God! Webbed feet!"

1972

THE COMPLETE CARTOONS OF THE NEW YORKER

Frank Modell (9/30/1972)

Return to Main Menu ▶

1972

THE COMPLETE CARTOONS OF THE NEW YORKER

“Nobody said you have to do everything on an all-inclusive tour.”

Mischa Richter (9/30/1972)

Return to Main Menu ▶

“If you wait until it goes down to 750, I’ll jump with you.”

“Will you shut up? It’s trying to tell you something.”

“Greg, there’s something I’ve got to tell you. I’ve met this very nice square. Clarence is his name, and he wants for me to adopt his life style.”

1972

THE COMPLETE CARTOONS OF THE NEW YORKER

"Two dollars."

"—and seventy-five cents."

“Manhattan motorists are advised to avoid the West Forties, because of a rain of fire and brimstone taking place in that area.”

1972

THE COMPLETE CARTOONS OF THE NEW YORKER

Warren Miller (9/30/1972)

Return to Main Menu ▶

1972

THE COMPLETE CARTOONS OF THE NEW YORKER

“Go ahead, Son, make a wish, but keep within the realm of possibility.”

Edward Frascino (9/30/1972)

Return to Main Menu ▶

1972

“And I’ll have the sole amandine, but hold the nuts.”

1972

“I was just eighteen when dashing Jamie Benton looked at me in bold admiration. There was a tight feeling about my heart, and for a moment I thought I would swoon. In the days that followed, I was courted with wine and roses and Shakespeare. My soul awoke with a gasp, and in the very instant of awakening went out to him forever. Today, however, I feel privileged to get so much as a grunt out of the old curmudgeon.”

“Officer, arrest that man!”

“... and now all those opposed to sending him a get-well card.”